Looking at the bone before us, we find a little cold weather the first of December, which we have realized, and there is an other blot beyond the center of the bone, denoting cold weather about the middle of January; this cloud we are passing now, and so far our little prognosticator has guided us right. The darkest blots are near the end of the bone, and if the prophecy fails not, winter will verify the saying of coming in like a lamb and going out like a roaring lion. Our coldest weather will come after the middle of February, and our warmest fires will be required for the parting days of winter and the first days of spring. This is the goose bone prophecy, and as we have the word of a good old farmer that it has not siled for fifty years, we would advise the laying in of a good supply of coal, and general preparations to meet cold weath er-for the goose bone has said it, and old winter will be after young spring with a big icicle.
